

The Seven Laws of Teaching - John Milton Gregory

The Seven Laws of Teaching John Milton Gregory

1. A teacher must know thoroughly what he would teach.
2. A learner must attend with interest to what he would learn.
3. The medium must be language understood by both teacher and pupil in the same sense.
4. The truth to be taught must be related to truth already known, as we can only reach the unknown through that which is known.
5. The act of teaching is the act of arousing and guiding the self-activities of another mind so as to develop in it a certain thought or feeling.
6. The act of learning is the act of reproducing, fully and accurately in our own understanding, the ideas to be acquired.
7. The test and confirmation of teaching are to be found in repetitions and reviews. - Summary by John M. Gregory
